

Currently the Act relies on a binary definition of gender (men and women only). I believe that it should be updated to also require data collection and reporting on non-binary and other gender-diverse people, who currently face high levels of discrimination and inequality.